The observational method in ground engineering is a continuous, managed, integrated process of design, construction control, monitoring and review. The aim is to enable modifications to be incorporated during or after construction as appropriate. All these aspects have to be demonstrably robust. The objective is to achieve greater overall ... Free CIRIA publications Managing urban flooding from heavy rainfall - encouraging the uptake of designing for exceedance: 29/04/2014: C738. Designing for exceedance enables better management of local flood risk and surface water by creating safe and resilient flood routes, temporary storage areas and making use of other measures to reduce the impact of flooding. CIRIA CIRIA is a neutral, independent, not-for-profit organisation. We facilitate a range of collaborative activities that help improve the construction industry.
